

US Bank Interview Questions:

- I gave my answers accordingly and this is just part of what I said, I can't remember the rest due to the pressure situation I was in to think of the answers on the spot.

1.) Why do you want to work for US Bank?

- "They're one of the leading banks for finance, more specifically, they're the 5th largest bank in the United States. Also, how one of the things that they're prominently great at is by being consistently helpful towards their users. I also mentioned how I want to be a part of US Bank because I want to find ways to make the security of the transferring of money to be more secure. If I know that I'm working with a company that is directly impacting the users in a beneficial way, then I know my work is indirectly helping."

2.) Talk about a time where your goal wasn't laid out thoroughly and what you did to achieve your goal?

- I talked about a time when a "specific class of mine wasn't taught well and how I had to self-learn a lot on my own."

3.) Talk about a time where you promoted diversity and growth.

- I talked about how I "promoted S.T.E.M to young children, more specifically young girls."

4.) Talk about a time when someone else didn't want to cooperate with you and what you did to tackle that?

- I talked about how some people didn't like to work with me because of the way I teach and how I "know it all." However, I've learned to keep my pride aside and learn from their perspective to help them.

5.) Talk about a project that you've done or currently are doing where the technology was new and different.

- I talked about how I'm working on this "encryption project at the moment that essentially encrypts an entire folder that consists of multiple .txt files and it'll encrypt that using the RSA method. However, to take this further, I'll be using Kernel Processing on images to blur them that are inside the folder. I started to mention the math, technology, and the amount of research that's taking place that I'm currently doing."
